

PREPARED FOR BRENDAN HALPIN, WESWITCHU

Build the WeSwitchU marketing team you never had

An agent-led marketing system, built for WeSwitchU and handed over. First the brand strategy, decoded into code, which becomes the DNA everything else runs on. Then the two agents whose job is to make people aware of you: an advertising agent running paid social, and a search agent working search and the AI answer engines every day. Then the website, rebuilt so the people they bring have somewhere worth landing, and somewhere to keep the ones who are not switching today.

Quality first, then automate

IRELAND'S MARKETER OF THE YEAR, 2022

Before I build anything, I ask one question: what does really good look like here? Not what AI can do, but the best version of this marketing, and the level of quality I would want to stand over.

So I start where I always have. If there were no AI at all, what team would I hire to do this properly? A strategist to set the positioning and the plan, someone making and running the ads all year, someone working search every day, and a designer and a developer to build the website and keep it current. I map that team first, then build exactly it, with agents instead of hires.

Twenty years in brand is what tells me where the bar sits: Head of Brand at 02 Ireland, then CMO at the National Lottery, Head of Brand at Indeed and Miro, both global roles. Positioning, messaging and tone are written first, then built into everything the agents make.

What we would build for WeSwitchU

This comes from our conversation. We would deliver an agent-led marketing system. A set of agents that do the marketing work, all of them running on one agreed strategy, so that everything they produce is on brand and on message without anyone having to check it. You put the problem plainly on the call: how do people know what WeSwitchU does, and how do you get that message across in a crowded market. That is an awareness problem, so that is what this is built around.

- 01 Brand strategy, decoded into code. The positioning, the key target audiences, the key pain points, the key messages, the tone of voice and the brand identity. We work it out together, write it down in one place, then decode it into a file the website is built from and every agent writes against. That file becomes the DNA of all WeSwitchU's marketing communications. It matters more here than in most businesses, because the ads are the main channel, and an agent making a lot of ads from a weak strategy just spends your media budget faster.
- 02 The advertising agent. Advertising is how people find out you exist, and that is the job here. The agent makes the ads. Not three versions of one ad, but a lot of different ads built on one idea, in the formats paid social runs on, for TikTok, Meta and wherever else your customers are. Then it reads the numbers, keeps what works, drops what does not, and makes more of the ones that are working. Your money goes on media rather than on the people making the ads.
- 03 The search agent. Paid search, organic search, and being named when someone asks an AI assistant. This is the cheap half, because the demand already exists and nobody needs persuading they want a better energy deal. You have also already written a lot of the content. The work is knowing where each page actually lands and doing the thing that moves it, every day, as the questions and the engines change.
- 04 The website, and somewhere to keep people. A better website on its own will not make people aware of you. But once the two agents are running, everything they bring lands here, and the site has to explain what WeSwitchU actually is and hold on to people who are interested but not ready to switch today. That means a lead magnet and a simple database, so you are not paying to acquire the same person twice.
- 05 Handed over to your team. None of this is built to keep me involved. Someone on your team should be able to run it as a few tasks in their week, without being a marketer. The last part of the work is them doing each job themselves while we watch.

The parts, and what each one is for

DELIVERABLE ONE

Brand strategy, decoded into code

The first thing we would deliver is the brand strategy: the positioning, the key target audiences, the key pain points, the key messages, the tone of voice and the brand identity. We work all of it out together and write it down properly in one place. It is then decoded into code, so it is not a document that gets read once and filed, but a file the website is built from and every agent writes against.

You have a real story and it is not written down anywhere. You take no commission from the suppliers. You are paid out of what you save people, and if there are no savings there is no fee. When the suppliers offered you the commission model you turned it down because it would have meant worse deals for customers. That is the thing people need to hear, and right now they do not hear it.

DELIVERABLE TWO

The advertising agent

Doing advertising properly means making a lot of ads, running them, dropping the ones that do not work and making more. That has needed an agency or a full-time person. The agent does that work, and every ad is made from your brand strategy, so they all say the same thing in the same voice.

The web version of this proposal shows the kind of ads it produces: stills, animated charts and portrait formats, made in volume and refreshed as often as you need. Those examples were made for Run with Foxes, not for WeSwitchU, and yours would be made in your colours saying your things. One honest note: video is a different job. We can make video, but it is a bigger piece of work each time and does not run off the same daily loop, so treat it as a separate conversation.

DELIVERABLE THREE

The search agent

People looking for a better energy deal start by searching. Most type it into Google, and more of them now ask an assistant instead. A search agency runs three things for that: paid search, organic search, and getting named when someone asks an AI. Most of that is daily checking and adjusting against a handful of rules a good marketer sets once.

You have already written a lot of this. There are pages on your site for the cheapest electricity in Ireland, for the best tariff with solar and battery, for EV charging, for heat pumps. The work now is not writing more of them, it is knowing where each one lands when somebody searches or asks an assistant, and doing the thing that moves it. This is not an audit that gets done once and filed. The agent runs every day, watching where you are named, noticing when you slip, and picking up new questions as people start asking them.

DELIVERABLE FOUR

The website, and somewhere to keep people

Rather than describe how we build, the web version of this proposal has WeSwitchU rebuilt from your current site so you can see the standard and the speed. It shows what is technically possible, not how your site would look. The design would come out of the brand strategy, with a proper brief and the right images.

The second job is the one you do not have at all. Most people who land on your site are not switching that day. Right now they leave and you have no way of reaching them again, so you pay to acquire them all over again later. A lead magnet and a simple database fixes that.

Two issues came up while building it, and both are worth fixing either way. Your page title reads "Compare Electricity Prices Ireland" and the description underneath says "real annual cost comparison", when you told me clearly that WeSwitchU is not a price comparison website. That is the first thing Google reads and the first thing an AI assistant reads. And your SPF record authorises five separate systems to send email as weswitchu.ie while your DMARC is set to monitor only, which is a lot of doors left open once you start emailing people regularly.

AFTER THIS

What we would build next

Two things came up on the call that are worth doing and are not in this piece of work. A ghostwriter, so what you already say about independence and about how switching actually works turns into posts and articles without you writing them. And outbound to farmers and high-usage businesses, where the saving is bigger and so is your fee, which is worth doing separately from the consumer advertising.

Two options

Option A is the build: the brand strategy, the advertising agent, the search agent, the website with lead capture, and your team trained to run it. It gets you up and running, agent-led, in about six weeks. Option B is the same build with me on the team afterwards, working on the marketing with you each month and building more of the system as you need it. We would recommend starting with Option A and adding the monthly later only if you want it.

OPTION A

The build, handed over

- › Brand strategy: positioning, key target audiences, key pain points, key messages, tone of voice and brand identity, decoded into the code the whole system runs on
- › The advertising agent, making and running paid social ads across the formats and platforms your customers use
- › The search agent, covering paid search, organic search and being named by the AI answer engines, running every day
- › A new website, built in React through Claude Code and hosted on Vercel, which your team can change by asking
- › A lead magnet and a database, so people who are interested but not switching today are kept rather than lost
- › Everything configured for WeSwitchU, handed over, and your team trained until they run each part unaided

€9,000 plus VAT

About six weeks from sign-off. Media spend and your own tool subscriptions are separate, held in your name, and agreed with you in advance.

OPTION B

The build, and me on the team afterwards

- › Everything in Option A
- › Marketing leadership every month. Time spent working on WeSwitchU's marketing with you: what is working, what to change, and what to do next
- › More of the system built. The next useful part, whatever it turns out to be by then
- › Continued training for your team as new parts are added
- › Direct access to me between sessions, not only on the scheduled ones
- › You can stop the monthly at any point

€13,500 plus VAT

€9,000 build, then €1,500/month × 3 months = €13,500.

WHAT THE PRICE COVERS

The strategy work, the build, the handover, and training your team to run it. I do the building myself and hand the system over, so Run with Foxes does not have to become a permanent cost. If you do want me to stay involved, that is Option B rather than something you are locked into.

WHAT IT DOESN'T

Your media spend, which is yours to set and stays in your control. And your own tool subscriptions, in your name: Claude Code, hosting and an email platform. A small, predictable software bill, agreed with you before anything is spent.
